

Presales Team achieve further CCNA qualifications

September 2016

Here at GGR Communications, we recognise the importance of continuous improvement and we take great pride in the qualifications and experience our team boasts. Last month, two of the Presales department obtained a Cisco CCNA Wireless Certificate, meaning they both now hold Wi-Fi and Routing and Switching associate qualifications.

Investing in our employees and ensuring that they hold the most up to date certifications enables us to offer you the very best solutions and engineering support. All of our engineers are fully accredited and we offer training for career progression and continuous improvement as a company.
